

ANDZEI BIO

I started my career in the USA. Originally I went there to pursue a career in wakeboarding. A few serious injuries later... wakeboarding was replaced by filming! Coming from an extreme sports background I know how to capture action and pay attention to detail. Whether it's working on 200 people crew studio shoots in India or two man crew guerilla style shoots somewhere in the jungle, I like a hands on approach. Besides directing, I often shoot and edit my own projects.

I work worldwide with agencies such as BBDO, Leo Burnett, DDB, JWT, McCann, Ogilvy for brands like BMW, Volkswagen, Pepsi Co, Nissan, Huawei, Panasonic, Uber and many others. The passion that I bring to each project is the same as it was for the very first film I ever shot.

When i'm not shooting I spend time outdoors - rock climbing, surfing, skateboarding, slacklining or anything else that fuels me with adrenaline. For the past couple of years I've been a nomad and living out of a backpack. Whether it's from project to project or just for fun, I'm constantly on the road. So get in touch, I might be coming to your city next!
